GENERAL ORDERS

Employee Performance

PURPOSE:

The Greenville County Sheriff's Office disciplinary system consists of positive (awards/recognition) as well as negative (punitive) elements. COUNSELING:

Counseling provides an employee, whose performance is not to standard, with the steps necessary to avoid more radical forms of discipline. Counseling is appropriate when there is a reasonable belief the employee has a problem or is experiencing difficulty understanding, adjusting to, or internalizing matters which:

- Are job related.
- Involve personnel policies.
- Involve interpersonal relationships among co-workers.
- Involve personal matters affecting the employee's work performance.

Supervisors or employees start the counseling process. If the problem is not resolved, assistance is sought from a division commander, chaplain, or outside counseling professional. Counseling in specific situations is mandatory:

- Officer involved shootings.
- Officer involved vehicle collision with other party injuries.

COUNSELING SESSION REPORT – To be issued by a supervisor or a Master Deputy for minor infractions.

- Counseling Session Reports will be completed on a Platoon / Unit level and kept in the Platoon file.
- Counseling Session Reports are produced in duplicate with a copy given to the offending employee. The original document is signed by the offending employee and the issuing employee.
- If no further action is required within a twelve month period, the Counseling Session Report will be disposed from the Platoon file.
- Counseling Session Reports are not considered punitive discipline; however, if there is a recurring issue that needs to be addressed through punitive discipline, the Counseling Session Report should be used to support that action.

Supervisors are to attach the Counseling Session Report to the Written Warning or Written Reprimand if the recurring issue is within a twelve month period.

- Once signed, this document is forwarded up the chain of command and ultimately given to the Sheriff for his review.

POSITIVE COUNSELING:

Positive Counseling Reports may be used by a supervisor or a Master Deputy to recognize and document quality work/behavior displayed by deputies. Once signed, this document is forwarded up the chain of command and ultimately given to the Sheriff for his review.

REMEDIAL TRAINING:

Remedial training is a means of improving performance and correcting deficiencies in knowledge or in performance. If an employee fails to demonstrate minimum levels of proficiency on specified job-related tasks or knowledge, the employee receives remedial training. The employee is instructed about how to perform in an acceptable manner. Remedial training is corrective in nature. Its purpose is to enhance employee performance and job knowledge.

PUNITIVE DISCIPLINE:

Punitive discipline is authorized under the Sheriff's Office Rules and Regulations Manual. There are five forms of punitive discipline:

- 1. WRITTEN WARNING – Issued by a higher ranking supervisor and used to:
 - Address an issue that has previously been handled through a Counseling Session within a twelve month period.
 - Address an issue that exceeds minor infractions but does not rise to the level of a Written Reprimand.

Written Warnings are produced in duplicate with a copy given to the offending employee. The original document is signed by the offending employee and their supervisor. Once signed, this document is forwarded up the chain of command and ultimately given to the Sheriff for his review. Following the Sheriff's review, the original is stored in the offending employee's file in the Office of Professional Standards.

A copy of Written Warning forms are retained for twelve months in the Platoon file and then may be disposed from the Platoon file.

- 2. WRITTEN REPRIMAND - Issued by a higher ranking supervisor and used to:
 - Correct violations of the policy and procedure.
 - Correct repeated procedural errors.
 - Correct violations of other written directives.

Written reprimands are produced in duplicate with a copy given to the offending employee. The original document is signed by the offending employee and their supervisor. Once signed, this document is forwarded up the chain of command and ultimately given to the Sheriff for his review. Following the Sheriff's review, the original is stored in the offending employee's file in the Office of Professional Standards.

A copy of Written Reprimand forms are retained for two years in the Platoon file and then may be disposed from the Platoon file.

3. SUSPENSION - Appropriate when:

- Earlier, documented efforts to discipline have failed.
- The offense is so serious that retaining the employee in an on-duty status would pose a threat to public safety, or the good order and discipline of the Sheriff's Office.

Only the Sheriff, Chief Deputy, Majors, Captains and Lieutenants may suspend employees without pay.

IMMEDIATE SUSPENSION - Affected employee is immediately advised of the reason(s) for suspension, the estimated duration of the suspension, and whether it is with or without pay. Written notification is given to the offending employee within seventy-two hours of verbal notice of suspension.

ANTICIPATED SUSPENSION - Affected employee is notified by giving them a Disciplinary Action form, listing reasons for suspension, its duration, and any additional disciplinary action to be rendered.

SURRENDER OF PROPERTY – Unless otherwise directed by the Sheriff, a suspended employee immediately surrenders their badge, weapon, identification card, and any other equipment as ordered. This includes reserve deputies.

4. DEMOTION - Demotion is reduction in rank. The Sheriff, Chief Deputy and Majors are authorized to demote employees.

5. DISMISSAL – Dismissal is termination of employment. The Sheriff, Chief Deputy and Majors hold legal authority to dismiss employees. Captains dismiss employees with permission from the Sheriff. A dismissed employee receives a written statement that includes:

- Reason for dismissal.
- Effective date of dismissal.

- Statement of the status of accrued employee benefits after termination.
- Reference to the content of the employee's employment record as related to the dismissal.

ACTION:

The employee must sign punitive disciplinary action with the understanding that their signature indicates receipt of the document and does not necessarily indicate their agreement with the contents. Failure to sign will result in the employee immediately being placed on administrative leave without pay. If an employee fails to sign the document by the end of the second full workday, they are considered to have resigned without notice. Employees who wish to grieve the disciplinary action should follow the procedures in General Order 113.

CONDUCT AND PROCEDURES
